

ABSTRACT

A method for fabricating a flash memory device is provided. A tunnel oxide layer is formed over a substrate. Thereafter, a floating gate, an inter-gate dielectric layer, and a control gate are sequentially formed over the tunnel oxide layer. Since the floating gate includes a plurality of nanocrystals, the memory cell can still normally function even if partial region of the floating gate is impaired.